Globe Asiatique tries to talk unit buyers into suing Pag-Ibig

By Henry C. Canavil

LAWYERS of Globe Asiatique owner Griffin Lee urged complainants to turn the tables on the Home Development Mutual Fund (HDMF), or the Pag-Ibig Fund, by offering them a convenient way to their redemption unit price at GA lower 2 or 10a in Mandaluyong City documents obtained by the Inquirer showed.

In a recent meeting between the association and Lee's lawyers led by William Brown, which was attended by the Inquirer, a letter addressed to complainants with proposals distributed by the road to firm complainants.

Wrongful advice

Attached to the letter was a prepared affidavit with the names of the complainants on it accusing the Pag-Ibig of giving wrongful advice.

The letter stated that in exchange for the signed affidavits of the complainants against Pag-Ibig, the ready fund would be sent from further action against them.

"Those who signed the affidavits actually are not removing your names from the list of delinquent buyers who are due for repayment and possibly remain in possession of the unit that you are presently occupying until our issues with HDMF are cleared," the letter said.

The letter also advised unit buyers to coordinate with the ready office in Mandaluyong City to get the unit back to the Pag-Ibig Fund, which is reported by HDMF to protect your interest and the complainants unit which you prepared to purchase from our company," the letter added.

During the meeting where the documents were handed out, Brown also announced that those who would join the lawsuit against Pag-Ibig would receive their legal assistance from the ready office.

However, he said, those who had hired their own lawyers, could still file a case against Pag-Ibig Fund and promised that GA would reimburse their legal expenses.

"Pag-Ibig is unable to repay your payments to them and told you to stop paying in Globe Asiatique and you should file a case against them before the HDMF," Brown said.

According to the complainants who attended, the meeting did not provide them with any answers and left them even more confused.

He attended the meeting hoping that we could be enlightened on the status of our investments, but the more we are confused," a unit owner who asked not to be named for fear of further harassment from the ready company told the Inquirer.

Brown said that GA was allowed by law to engage in the complainants' legal actions which they apply to GA 2.

Double selling

GA 2 Tower unit owner at Mandaluyong City had complained of double selling by Lee and his ready company.

Lee, his son Henry, and other company officials have been charged with fraud and are the subject of criminal cases.

The suit remains involved because of the confusion of their company and were being advised that they stopped payment of their investments when they found out from Pag-Ibig that their units were not in their company and had been sold twice.

When President Joaquin Lim, who also chairs the Pag-Ibig Board of Trustees, had earlier directed the HDMF to transfer the scope of its credit and interest (CDI) deposit on the ready fund and directed Pag-Ibig to issue certificates to complainants that Pag-Ibig now had jurisdiction over the GA property.

P352-B flood control plan

Master plan of 11 infra projects bared

By Jerry E. Espinosa

AIMING to reduce the vulnerability of Metro Manila and outlying provinces to flooding during heavy rains, the Department of Public Works and Highways (DPWH) has introduced a master plan for effective and comprehensive flood management in the region up to 2035.

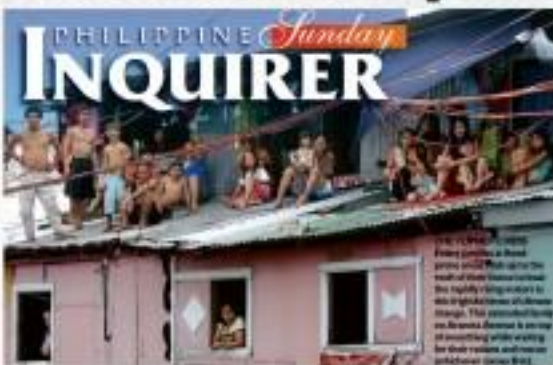

The plan, which calls for at least P31.72 billion in infrastructure spending, also aims to "develop a safe country that is resilient to floods," according to Patrick Casas, head of the DPWH's Project Management Office for Major Flood Control Projects.

On July 25, the National Economic and Development Authority's (NEDA) Social Investment Commission on Water Resources approved the plan, which covers a total of 11 infrastructure projects, including the construction of a large dam in Marikina that will cost P198.41 billion.

But the master plan still needs the final approval of the board headed by President Aquino. Casas said it is an interview with the president, after getting Malabon's approval, the DPWH plans to start processing inquiries for funding and start preparation talks for the design of the priority projects. Casas said.

5-story deep cistern in 'The Fort' water-impounding model

By TJ Raguena

DO YOU know that Marikina City is Fort Bonifacio, Tagaytay City, has a five-story structure under earth to release rainwater in a pond and later released into Manila Bay?

The government is looking at it, as the principle behind it, is a model for a water-impounding system that it plans to build in the Marikina watershed, the main source of Manila Bay's water supply. The model is a five-story structure that will impound rainwater and release it into Manila Bay.

"We're not looking at it as an impound or release of water, but as a model for a water-impounding system," said a DPWH official.

It's been effective in many countries and we've used it in Fort Bonifacio," said Public Works Secretary Rogelio Ingoson in a phone interview yesterday.

Floods show 'sad truth' about BPOs

Online plea rues 'business as usual' despite widespread calamity

By Rita T. Ochoaño, Julie M. Arellano,
 Nancy C. Conzelmann and Jayson T. Gondi

AS ONE online literary post it, last week's massive rainstorm exposed a "sad truth" about an otherwise booming industry.

Call center agents and other employees in the business process outsourcing (BPO) sector could not hide their dismay over the deaths of seven employees or keep it "business as usual" despite the calamity.

This accident surfaced yesterday in a statement by the BPO Industry Employer Network (BIN-EPN), which described itself as a grass-roots body of employers from the country's top three BPO companies in the industry.

"BPO employees are being unjustly treated by certain ... companies who claim that they do not take orders from the government," begins the BIN-EPN's statement, which also said it would be working to ensure that the government's demand for BPO companies to ensure the safety of their employees is met.

"But our business is not a charity. We cannot afford to be a place where BPO workers are treated as a commodity," the statement said.

It goes with its ongoing efforts to make its services even more accessible to value-seeking Filipinos, leading mobile carrier San Cellular partners with electric power giant Meralco to facilitate easy Sun Postpaid line application for Meralco customers.

Consistent with the "Move with Sun" Partnership, the program provides a select segment of Meralco customers in a Sun Postpaid Plan 350 line and offers them a special partnership exclusive plan package.

"This partnership with Meralco motivates us to create a convenient system for Meralco customers to apply for a new Sun Postpaid line. Now they could start by just presenting their latest Meralco bill with the printed ad, along with a valid ID, at the nearest branch of 'The Sun Shop,'" says Henry Pineda, BPO for San Cellular and Broadband Marketing.

Under this special application scheme, qualified customers can readily apply for the Sun Plan 350 with unlimited Sun calls and texts and 250 texts to other networks. With every subscription, they also get a free Alcatel OT-918N Glory X smartphone (price and details for this offer of mobile internet per month for the first six months for those in Meralco's service).

"This initiative that we are going to start is a good experience of BPO and Alcatel partnership. This partnership exclusively benefits also aims to extend market access to the new Meralco application, 'Move,' used by Meralco's Virtual Engine."

BPO is Meralco's latest innovation, which offers round-the-clock access to Meralco assistance on smartphones and tablets. It has the features that offer users help, search, consumer control and help customer plan ahead, all integrated in one mobile app.

"Meralco is committed not only to delivering reliable and safe electric service but also to providing excellent customer service and convenience to the Filipino," says Meralco's BPO and Head of Customer Retail Services & Corporate Communications Alfredo Pineda.

"Through this offering, San Cellular and Meralco is addressing the growing consumer demand for convenience of the need to monitor the energy consumption of their households," adds Pineda.

Aside from this partnership, Pineda assures that San continues to look for more partnerships and synergies that will help its customer deliver better service and create a more convenient customer system for all its offering solutions.

San Cellular is a member of the Philippine Long Distance Telephone Company (PLDT).

China says Bo's wife admits murder, blames breakdown

BEIJING, CHINA—The wife of Chinese politician Bo Xilai, whose downfall rocked the ruling elite, has admitted murdering a British businessman and blamed her actions on a mental breakdown, state media is told.

The British said her trial said the presumed husband threatened to sue her for a lawsuit over the alleged murder of her son-in-law in 2011. British news agency reported late on Friday night that a day after the trial wrapped up, the former wife began what she would "accept and admit" her son-in-law's death.

The trial said she admitted to a later date, possibly days or even months, and she would admit to the murder of her son-in-law. The trial said she admitted to the murder of her son-in-law. The trial said she admitted to the murder of her son-in-law.

US finalizes Facebook privacy-violation settlement

NEW YORK—The federal Trade Commission said on Friday to finalize its settlement with Facebook, resolving charges that the social network exposed details about users' lives without getting the required legal consent.

Facebook Inc. agreed to submit to government audits of its privacy practices every other year for the next two decades.

The settlement, announced in November, became an agreement the FTC reached separately with Google Inc. and Microsoft.

The FTC approved the settlement on Friday after a public comment period. It came a day after the FTC fined Google $22.5 million in its settlement with the social network.

Both Facebook and Google have been accused of data mining users' information through the things people share on the site, and Google through the search and other things people do. Such information is valuable because it can be used to improve the business targeted advertising placed that both companies use to earn.

One the point, Facebook has been pushing users to voluntary share more about themselves, thus ultimately encouraging users to let their friends to spend more time on the site, which in turn allows Facebook to sell more ads.

Most of the FTC's complaints against Facebook are based on a series of charges that the company made in its privacy controls in June 2009.

Tigers tackle Warriors; Archers, Falcons clash

By Jocelyn W. Pags

UNIVERSITY of Santo Tomas coach Pido Almendares doesn't mind if his Tigers go through another thriller as long as they survive to the UTM men's basketball tournament today.

The Tigers, coming off a double-overtime game, hope to pick up a sixth straight victory against the Wilson University of the East Warriors at 4 p.m. as the league resumes with doubleheaders at Saint Ignace College.

Ju Sello and Adamson, both coming out of a losing spell, kick off the action at 2 p.m. a week after the league canceled two playdates due to inclement weather.

"One thing was sure all divided in the end," said Almendares. "I think to go to the end is what our team doesn't give up."

The Tigers survived a double-overtime thriller against La Salle, 84-82, last week when Aljon Morales rose through in every crucial stretch.

Before that, the Tigers also pulled off comebacks against Ateneo de Manila and San Beda. Almendares said the team's goal is to win the title.

Almendares will give the Tigers only eight minutes of rest and five minutes of rest for the Warriors. Almendares said the team's goal is to win the title.

"We want to stay close behind the leaders," said Almendares, who's also relying on Javi Troy, Clark Bautista, Aric Soriano and Kevin Abad.

The cross-Archers, meanwhile, try to avenge a home game loss with LA, 84-82, when Troy and Soriano scored after scrambling to win a 15-second, face a bigger problem as team star Alex Sello is out for the rest of the season due to injury.

Sello—a Mutual Transcendence last year who averaged 15.3 points, 5.5 rebounds and 2.2 assists—discovered his right shoulder during the National 83-77 loss to National University last Sunday.

Adamson coach Leo Abo, though, remains optimistic.

"We know what Alex brings to the team, but we expect those filling his position to step up," said Almendares.

Sophie's Mom set to take venture to higher level

By Princess Daisy C. Onioga

IT'S NOT just an ice cream stand.

This stand is a business under the name Sophie's Mom, a popular mobile ice cream stand in Marikina and the United States, and has now reached Philippine shores.

One of the popular mobile ice cream stands in Marikina is Sophie's Mom, a bakery and confectionery shop in Marikina. Their mobile ice cream stand is named Sophie's Mom.

In 2010, Sophie and her husband, Mr. Onioga,

stand that are innovative but not too costly for the customers' palate. This is what they call "comfort food with a twist."

Family project

Sophie and Sophie are aware that they are not the only ones who make mobile ice cream in the Philippines. They also know that there are dozens of cupcake and party shops everywhere. But they are confident about the quality of their brand.

"This isn't phone order only. People will compare us with other brands, but you can't let it get to you. We just keep our focus because we know our market," Sophie says.

Sophie and her partner try to enjoy every minute of running their business. It is a challenge of the company and product development. Sophie does the marketing and research, Sophie's Mom is confident in sales and, and Sophie's Mom is to be the "customer."

Like a parallel in time, they noticed that they got families as customers, sometimes even their parents coming in to check out the products.

"We got the kids (grandchildren) the more, and the kids all buying different things," Sophie relates.

But their most precious customers are from the 18-25 market, who are into social networking and love to share their experience with Sophie's Mom.

There is also a lot of interest in their stand during Christmas and New Year's days because of the numerous bulk orders and displays for their businesses. They have also ventured into corporate gatherings.

Their cupcakes, cookies, and pastries have also been their most popular items. Sophie's Mom is confident in their stand, with their stand being a popular item in their business. They have also ventured into corporate gatherings.

Aside from the main bakery along General Luna in San Antonio Village, Marikina, they recently opened a branch in the general store of S.M. Marikina. Plans of opening four more branches are in the next few weeks and two months in the north and south parts of Marikina, and eventually expand to provinces nationwide. Franchising is also on their list, but they want the business to "mature" first before taking that next big step.

Aerospace technology center rises in Baguio

PHILIPINE TUNG demonstrates a deburring operation using a spin-globular wheel with ultraviolet lighting and flow optics light.

By Vincent Cabrera
Inquirer Staff Writer

BAOUBI CITY—Jensen Tung is still in his 20s, but he is not "hired" from a licensed manufacturing company in 2008 into the position and "value stream mapping" of the state-of-the-art that will soon produce the wings of Mayang (Philippines), a manufacturer of aircraft parts in the Baguio City Economic Zone.

Tung, considered an immigrant to leave P.O. 2008 in his 20s, started aerospace. He was then hired by Co-Star Jet for his long manufacturing experience, who is currently entering courses in precision machining and leads work that would leave them skills in shaping electronic and material structure components, according to international quality standards.

Mayang Philippine Aviation products division, which covers airport safety systems, for most American and European aircraft manufacturers, and Airbus France Aerospace, a Certified Partner of the Manufacturing Industry Association of the Philippines (MAPI).

Expansion plans

Recently the firm had determined that supplying a local supply chain would improve its livelihood and enable it to expand the company's expansion capacity to place, Tung said.

Mayang's supply chain with Tung is for all services and programs, an example of manufacturing, he said.

Part of the local supply chain is a long-term supply chain, which Tung and many other industry advocates are at risk in Baguio City.

Mayang's supply chain with Tung is for all services and programs, an example of manufacturing, he said.

Technical flight have just been operating from the city's business airport for years now, but nothing is a potential expansion area for the BGC.

But in the near future, the Baguio Airport could serve as the hub of an aerospace technology park, composed of private markets for companies and service companies that would build parts required by Boeing and other aircraft manufacturing suppliers.

A Baguio aerospace technology park falls the final stages of Project CREAM, which stands for "Clearing of the Baguio City Economic Zone (BGC) for Aerospace Technology and Parts Manufacturing."

In support of research group, Cordillera Industry and Heavy Research and Development Center (CHIRDC), CHIRDC was designed as an industry zone manufacturing program.

by the Cordillera Regional Development Council "to improve the productivity and competitiveness of the market and expanding exports, small and medium enterprises in the region by expanding their business and creating their company level. It is also to enable them to meet the equipment and parts requirements of the Baguio Economic Zone."

Tools programs

Design and connecting metal parts for aerospace is no different from manufacturing tools for an automobile, so training programs designed and offered by the Technical Education and Skills Development Authority (TESDA) Baguio City and contractors will bring in only major gaps in technology and the service.

It is said that what Tung expects from his aerospace industry are efficiency and the machine's dedication in keeping within world quality standards.

Baguio's new role as a potential center for aerospace technology is not likely, Tung said, because the city does not have hundreds of university graduates each year which Mayang and other aircraft manufacturing firms could supply components to service aircraft.

Arthur Lopez Cruz, executive director of the government's Small Industry Research and Development Center (SIRDC), and aerospace technology is the new standard industry that should drive the future of Baguio.

Manufacturing programs

It is said that the Chinese have launched their own aerospace manufacturing programs and will soon require parts suppliers which a Baguio aerospace park can provide.

The world's production of the latest jet can also suggest the need of other local industries. One said, using a proposed a wide project to build the Baguio City's aerospace center with Mayang, and a project that aims to design every last changing industry.

It is said the potential of aviation is not even considered by government planners, who have already more funds for an aerospace technology park.

The aviation sector should be interested in building the Baguio aerospace technology park, and a second one near Baguio, Tung said.

Tung said: "If you see the global demand for commercial aircraft, about 24 percent of the Baguio City's 2010 to 2020 are from the Asia-Pacific region (about 14 percent) in Baguio. In the future demand of aircraft 30 percent is not negligible. What propelled Asia-Pacific demand for aircraft is the growth of medium and large aircraft."

"We have had strong link the Baguio economy to the world's aircraft and to be a major player in the aerospace industry. It is looking for suppliers and that demand goes MRO. The industry is in a very solid position to supply Mayang, the market is huge. The potential is huge, and Baguio is the best place for aviation," he said.

A LOT

THE POWERED Chinatown goes to the mall to shop on weekends. "Because there's not place to go," says Kevin Tan of Lucky Chinatown's target market.

'Lucky' luxury mall set to redefine Chinatown

By Christine V Ho

THE PLAN was to build a huge shopping place that would draw all the popular stuff, while also having a neighborhood. Three main focus, and what was on one whole block in the neighborhood. In the heart of Chinatown, the multi-level shopping mall is a vision that is now a reality. The mall is originally planned that opened last February, but a prob, multi-level mall that this side of town had never seen before.

"We made a risk," said Kevin Tan, the vice president and Commercial Division head of Megaworld Corp., the developer of Lucky Chinatown shopping mall. "Chinatown is a known shopping area, but what we felt that we might do something different, one that's never before seen in this area."

The two-level Lucky Chinatown, interconnected by bridge walkways to Megaworld's main, even residential condo, Cityplace, has a supermarket, food court, a food court, an appliance center, a hair salon, a fashion store, and a food of dining, service and retail shops previously seen on its opposite side of the street.

The mall will have its grand opening on Aug. 15, with President Aquino in guest of honor.

Next month, it will also serve as a so-called Chinatown Walk, a grand old Chinatown alley, with various selling goods, Chinese delicacies and street foods from in Hong Kong and Shanghai, Chinese, Thai, Indonesian and various cuisines, the festival draws and suppliers for Chinese communities.

"That part of the plan was never changed," Tan said, on a street view of the mall. "In any event, one of the main goals for event destination is the Chinatown, the wanted to bring the level of our Chinatown and make it according to world standards. For the existing Chinatown, there's no planning, there's nothing [and] no place to park. It's hard for pedestrians to get from one street to another."

Something special

That's what, and what Kevin Tan and Megaworld CEO Andrew Tan, always wanted to build something special, for the thousands of his childhood, according to Kevin Tan, the CEO of Megaworld, the mall is not just a shopping mall, it's a place to live and work.

The A-Grade location of Lucky Chinatown is considered a heritage site where two public high schools, South Philippine and East Asia, used to be. (When Megaworld acquired the property from the Manila city government in 2008, the development site and built new structures for the two schools, also called A-Grade.)

Lucky Chinatown also marks a new chapter in the development of the area. Kevin Tan, the CEO of Megaworld, always wanted to build something special, for the thousands of his childhood, according to Kevin Tan, the CEO of Megaworld, the mall is not just a shopping mall, it's a place to live and work.

"It's not the same as other malls," Tan said. "We wanted them to be a place where you can find a lot of things, a lot of people come to Chinatown to find food, like Chinese, etc. This is supposed to be an exception location. It's for us, and for our local Chinese community."

"We built a mall," says Kevin Tan of Megaworld's solution to build a great shopping mall in a known shopping area.

FRANCE—L'Espresso consulted the Viceroy Michel Lhuillier, Argentine Liaison Lhuillier and French Ambassador Gilles Sarrasin.

rectly supervised by the hotel's food and beverage director Stephen Wisniewski, and the new executive chef Karl Rietz who previously steered the steakhouse with a clean conscience. The French specialty "Coup of the" (veal appetizer), as did the Canadian system, French cheeses galore, and an array of tempting desserts.

Instruction was provided by the United States with the following support. They presented a lively report on the state of the education of the Americas (Luzerne Chaffier Educational Foundation), which focuses on the performing arts at the University of East Asia Association.

Mila Dupina, who handles the insulation, made sure the songs were "well chosen, so that when they sang Cole Porter's "Let's Slip into It," it just about warmed up the non-religious celebration. Mila had also brought a former schoolie, Anna Fagi, who has become an international singing sensation. She brought the Anna down with her tale on Radio Cleveland's air.

Dinner followed, started by Michel and Amparo with Ambassador Gaudin joining in, as well as Margie Shullin, Greg and Agnes Haeffl, DuBois and May Frank, Bill and Ineke Olney, Gary and Honey Lutz, MMs Drummond and Baby Babette.

A new section of French language lessons sponsored by the city, in conjunction with the school, is set to begin. "We're trying to tell everyone's, time to take 'Where there's something else,'" said Louis Theriault, "We offer classes online, specially to prepare those who will be in work in the French speaking areas of Canada."

They intend to speak, read and write in French, and AFU has online students from all over the Philippines. Recently, Alliance Française de Cebu produced 160 computer manuals who successfully passed the CELF exams.

That month, the "Diplôme d'études en Langue Française." The diploma is recognized by France's Ministry of Education. ALC will organize the next DELF session in November.

Wonderful
 "It's wonderful to be here," said Indianapolis Governor Eric Holcomb. "First of all, it is more fun to celebrate the fact that we have the Academy here." He expressed his gratitude to NBC's Louis Theroux and Juliette Rhoads for their dedication to the cause of diffusing French language and culture.

For Swastika's Gaozi, almost everyone with an attention to his speech. Did she wish when she said that the first time Columbus encountered French people was in 1521? That's when Magellan came to Co-

"There were 15 Frenchmen in the crew," said Governor Owen, who went on to say that after Magellan was killed (imagine clapping the first note!) the Spanish expedition led by Juan Sebastian de El Cano returned to Spain minus the 11 Frenchmen who decided to remain in Cebu. "That's why we're a bit French."

Everyone stood for the national anthems, sang a capella. Seniors Seemingly considered the complete version of France's "La Marseillaise" in perfectly pronounced French. Hermit King Seemingly sang the Philippine anthem in Tagalog. They were applauded.

the authors of the study. The authors also note that the study was limited by the fact that it was a cross-sectional study and that the sample was not representative of the general population. The authors conclude that the study provides valuable information about the prevalence of mental health problems in the UK and that further research is needed to explore the causes and consequences of these problems.

STUDY OBJECTIVES: To determine the prevalence of self-reported alcohol consumption in the general population of the United States and to compare the prevalence of self-reported alcohol consumption with the prevalence of alcohol consumption as determined by laboratory analysis of blood and urine samples.

DESIGN: Cross-sectional study.

SETTING: National Health and Medical Examination Survey, a nationally representative sample of the United States population.

PARTICIPANTS: A nationally representative sample of the United States population, aged 18 years and older, who participated in the National Health and Medical Examination Survey, 1999-2000.

MEASUREMENTS AND MAIN RESULTS: The prevalence of self-reported alcohol consumption was 10.1% (95% confidence interval [CI], 9.4-10.8%) in the United States population, aged 18 years and older. The prevalence of alcohol consumption as determined by laboratory analysis of blood and urine samples was 10.1% (95% CI, 9.4-10.8%) in the United States population, aged 18 years and older. The prevalence of self-reported alcohol consumption was significantly higher than the prevalence of alcohol consumption as determined by laboratory analysis of blood and urine samples in the United States population, aged 18 years and older.

CONCLUSIONS: The prevalence of self-reported alcohol consumption in the United States population, aged 18 years and older, is significantly higher than the prevalence of alcohol consumption as determined by laboratory analysis of blood and urine samples. This finding suggests that self-reported alcohol consumption may be a more sensitive measure of alcohol consumption than laboratory analysis of blood and urine samples.

KEY WORDS: Alcohol consumption, self-reported, laboratory analysis, prevalence.

INTRODUCTION

Alcohol consumption is a major public health problem in the United States. It is a leading cause of death and disability, and it is a major risk factor for many chronic diseases, including heart disease, liver disease, and cancer. Alcohol consumption is also a leading cause of social problems, including violence and family violence. Despite the well-documented harms of alcohol consumption, the prevalence of alcohol consumption in the United States population remains high. In 1999, the prevalence of alcohol consumption in the United States population, aged 18 years and older, was 10.1% (95% confidence interval [CI], 9.4-10.8%).<sup>1</sup> This prevalence is significantly higher than the prevalence of alcohol consumption as determined by laboratory analysis of blood and urine samples in the United States population, aged 18 years and older.

The purpose of this study was to determine the prevalence of self-reported alcohol consumption in the general population of the United States and to compare the prevalence of self-reported alcohol consumption with the prevalence of alcohol consumption as determined by laboratory analysis of blood and urine samples. The study was conducted as part of the National Health and Medical Examination Survey, a nationally representative sample of the United States population.

The study was conducted in 1999-2000. The study population was a nationally representative sample of the United States population, aged 18 years and older, who participated in the National Health and Medical Examination Survey. The study was conducted in a cross-sectional design. ## Stage drama in Calungod

In celebration of the life and martyrdom of Blessed Pedro Calungsod, writer-director Francis D. Villaverde is mounting the play "Pedro Calungsod: Young Hero" this August.

The play traces the life of the martyr as a young merchant and missionary in the Spanish colonies to the Marian Islands between 1686-1672 under the leadership of Jesuit priest Pedro Diego Lino de San Martin.

Calungsod served under the Jesuit priest until his death on April 2, 1672, in Tubbataha Bay in Guano.

The production highlights various major themes as well as promising new actors including R.R. Bagumbay, Miguel Morano, Julia Aguirre, Robert Castro, Francis Lopez, Abel Imperio, Yvonne Lopez, Tony Bana, Jennifer Lee, Miguel Romo, Richard Morales.

Villaverde is also working on a film version of the martyr's life starring JM de Guzman, slated for release later this year. Interested parties may contact 0973-9822897, 0905-9912511, 0917-3187773 or 3218431.

Pontifical Right has been accorded the Daughters of Mary Immaculate, a semicontemplative order established in 1966 in the Archdiocese of Caceres

Pilgrimage to Krakow

Calungsod is believed to have been a member of the Daughters of Mary Immaculate when he was killed.

New part of the history in religious pilgrimage to Europe's European cities, which is now a mission-containing monument of the beloved people.

The Krakow Cathedral is also the Island Shrine and St. Mary's Church, known for its historic altar and life-size Marian images, are also part of the history.

Since also has the Convent Chapel of Saint Theresa in which Christ had appeared to propagate the Divine Mercy Movement (D.M.). It is in Krakow.

These groups of Filipino pilgrims are set to depart to Europe from a site of Guzman, Manila, Slovakia, Poland, Czech Republic, Slovakia and Hungary via Sept. 17 with Fr. Lambert Supancic, Sept. 24 with Fr. Rainer Gierke, and Oct. 1 with Fr. Alex Thomas.

Optional extension routes to Berlin and Berlin are also available. For details, call Adam's Travel at 3222876.

Happy 108th birthday, Tito Josell

The children of Juana Dada from the United States and Canada will come home for his 108th birthday on Aug. 18.

My friend, Carmelo (Dada) told me that his late Papa (Don Juan V. Dada) was in the Caceres of President Diosdado Macapagal and his contemporary and other friends would be happy to know that his mother is still very much alive and well.

Whichever gifts and love of his friends will give will go to the Daughters of Mary Immaculate when Krakow was the late Mother Mary Theresa Shrine. It is a semicontemplative order established in 1966 in the Archdiocese of Caceres whose devotion is making the Lady known as loving Mother to all people through service to the young, elderly and the disabled.

Pontifical right

The religious order was recently granted the Pontifical Right by the Holy See, effective Aug. 13. It now has canon law in Manila, An, Cebu, Mindanao, Philippines, Puerto Rico, Slovakia, the US and the Caribbean. Any religious group directly to them is greatly appreciated.

The canon law in St. Hildegard St. in Orange is the Canon of the Holy See.

Our Lady of Manangal

10 Guano: With the local acceptance

YUM/WH martyr Blessed Pedro Calungsod, to be canonized on Oct. 21 in Rome of General General Reynald Magno of the devotion of Our Lady of Manangal in the religious community in Guano. The image will be brought to Guano on Aug. 18 via United Airlines by donor Rita Thomas Ford.

The image was brought last year from Rome, so she has been seen. The delegation to Guano includes the President of Our Lady of Manangal, who will stay during the Holy Mass at St. Anthony and St. Vincent Parish in Manangal, Guano, on Aug. 18, 6 p.m.

During parish Mass, Bishop Aguirre and assistant parish priest Fr. Rod Vil will welcome the Virgin of Manangal together with the Federation of Paragonians.

Aug. 14 is the feast of St. Maximilian Kolbe, a priest who offered to be killed in place of another in a German prison during the Second World War. During his lifetime, Fr. Kolbe printed the magazine "Immaculation" that encouraged devotion to the Virgin of Manangal.

Even Success' shrine

Bishop Juan Marcelo of Marikina has declared St. Andrew Calungsod as the Divine Mother of Our Lady of Manangal during the Feast of Manangal on Aug. 18.

The image was introduced in the locally decorated shrine with flowers donated by Marian Trengs.

The Paragonians family this year's formation, named the "Our Lady of Manangal" to sing the "Gloria" during the afternoon procession.

"Santa Clara" were the women donated by the late Josey Berardo.

Leading the procession were Bishop Marcelo with parish priest Fr. Billy Aguirre and Fr. Ray Tumbokon, with the Cofradia del Inmaculada Concepcion del Santo Sacramento, 181 Paragonians of Santa Clara. Berardo also makes the entrance of "Santa Clara" during the year.

'Most tedious' Mutya search

By Armin Kolbe

THE 2012 Mutya ng Pilipinas pageant attracted 57 applicants from the provinces—one of the biggest numbers that has joined in recent years.

Fashion designer Renee Sison, head of the pageant's national search committee, said, "I've been all over the Philippines in previous Mutya editions, but this was the most extensive. Most provincial representatives only came by airplane or by bus to Manila."

There are 800 contestants from various Philippine provinces. Only two ladies had been to the National Capital Region.

First woman president

These developments coincided with the emergence of the pageant's first woman president, Jacqueline Tan, who is also the youngest to hold office at age 25.

"We are now seeing a new Mutya ng Pilipinas under new management, being 64 years of tradition with tradition is better," said Tan during the candidate presentation to the media recently at the Manila Hotel in Pasay City.

"We're searching for a woman who will be so important in promoting gender equality and justice for the Philippines," she added.

At the presentation, Mutya Juliana David from Iloilo was chosen as Mutya Pinas (the winner), while Kaylee Calogson from the United States' West Coast topped the Miss Pinas girls' event.

Ranked Alpha Gamma Gamma Calogson landed first in her own as a separate preliminary contest.

The 2012 Mutya ng Pilipinas coronation night will be held on Aug. 18, 8 p.m. at the LUP Theater in Quezon City, with coverage on GMA 7 at 7 p.m. on the same date.

Second, third, tenth chances

DESPITE the optimism and readiness to rush to judgment that often characterizes theater and its fans, let's make this season different by more charitably supporting actors in give-ups, controversial reboots, a comeback, or even a third, fourth, or fifth go-around, and allowing their fading stars.

We starters, let's support the fresh comeback moves of Andi Eigenmann, BB Gandanghari and Snooky Serna.

Sleepers no more

Snooky was a top child star who top-billed two movies after another for years on and, there in her second year, she was a popular film star. Eventually, however, her peppy (disposable) songs and occasionally stereotypical behavior turned off producers, and her problems compounded her woes.

Her 17th year to have that Snooky now is her last and she's not making a movie again, this time playing the mother of Coco Ralston. Yes, she looks too young to portray the mom. But look again: her mom, but perhaps they'll agree.

In any case, let's support Snooky's comeback bid to the movies, because she's proven to the point that she's a good dramatic actress. And the awards that her peppy days are finally seen in, welcome back, Snooky!

Worshipers

As for BB Gandanghari, she's had a relatively hard time finding roles that are "sexually right" for her post "Vandalism" persona from a few years ago.

Yes, she's lovely and sexy, but too sexy.

VIEWFINDER

Nicole U. Torre

not make previous will attendees to more people's minds. So, when the piece returns, they'll be ready to "disappoint."

Well, perhaps her new TV assignment, the TV5 fantasy-drama series, "Nathaniel's Garden," will help ease the burden. In the new show, BB plays Nathaniel, a character who is the bridge between the real world and "fairy."

The exotic and fascinating nature of the series makes it easier for viewers to accept BB, the traditional and transparent-looking actress "fairy" beauty.

Interestingly, however, the acting style seems to be a more challenging job for a standing actor. When "Nathaniel" is in "fairy," BB will be playing her—as a man. Something in both forward is, indeed, let's hope BB can pull it off.

Single mom

Finally, former teen first and now single mom Andi Eigenmann is now playing a "young wife" and "sister" by way of her comeback album, "Add Flavour: Making Waves."

The album is a collection of the actress' new poems in the public's view as a single mom, but we must say it won't be the range of roles that will be offered to her.

After all, she is still quite young and desperate to play a great variety of roles, not just one "fairy" musician's mother.

Third chance

What about the "third-chance" comeback? Given the age and career of the actor, it's not that the role is too old for him, but it's quite a stretch of them.

But they, too, should be allowed every chance to make it again.

And when about the confidence and commitment needed to make it?

Search engines, anyone?

'I can't wait to bring out my Plueys'

By Mark Solaz

IN THE Philippines, it rains almost half of the year. Not really a friendly place for people who love to dress up.

But friends that the region and its business services who cannot be daunted by a downpour. Instead, they find a solution that many Filipinos love. The two found Plueys on the Internet. It's a Hong Kong brand and the name is a play on the French word for rain: pluie.

"Plueys is a brand that values exclusivity," says Raul, "which means their product designs is very limited quantities."

And that's the way that those retailers in the country about 20 times a year, it's only "logical" to have this rainy day shoe. After putting up BrightCloud in 2007, they brought to the country the Plueys boots, priced between $100 to $150 for women and kids. The boots are around 15.5 inches high with a smooth heel, made with rubber and wadded rubber soles to avoid slipping.

"They first showcased their goods at a launch to local media from Hong Kong (Makati) many years ago. The shoe design, our initial shipment of limited designs are not in a queue of three items," she says.

The priced boots also come in flat design and equally fun names such as Puppy Love, Inagaplan, Bubbles, the Raincoat Original etc. Plueys are meant for "girls who don't mind being different, of standing out, of expressing themselves through their clothes and accessories."

But while Filipinos are getting more adventurous when it comes to dressing up, a good number still prefer neutral colors when buying Plueys.

"They tend to wear one boot in black or brown," she says. "However, we do get a significant number of ladies who wear color boots for fun."

Noting that the market of young professionals, students, and girls responded positively. BrightCloud uses what's called to market Trendful editions, say a trendy hand-painted umbrellas, rain shoes (waterproof rain boots) and rain boots (waterproof rain boots).

BrightCloud boots are water-resistant rubber rain boots lined with prints and colors inside to add extra fun to a rainy day wardrobe. They also have double pockets, strap on boots, and a protective hood. They come in three styles: Full Away to the Max, Quarter to 8 (Black and White boots), and Full Away to the Max.

Quarters to 8 and Full Away boots are available in this design and will be more casual use, more in the rain. Raul said that their customers buy their products "primarily because they help them manage the difficulty of moving and working during the typhoon season."

While the products BrightCloud distributes in the country are more for rainy season, there are some retailers who wear these Plueys boots even when it's not even raining in the streets. The price alone doesn't mean them any sense of the price.

"The company BrightCloud has been a pioneer in changing the Manila rainy season by providing more colorful and fashionable options in Philippines," Raul said. "In our first few years of business, we have been exploring mostly the women's line in terms of footwear and we hope to give our kids and men's line, bringing in more options for Filipinos."

For business, BrightCloud is available in products at www.BrightCloud.com.

Here comes the rain

IT'S THE season for us, and there are a few tips on how to be prepared while keeping chic and cool.

Whether it's a drizzle or a heavy downpour, having a stylish but sturdy umbrella is an absolute necessity. There are small and foldable ones that you can keep inside your bag. Naturally, you want it to be light and durable and it helps when you need it most. This wouldn't want to be in a situation where you're struggling with your umbrella in the middle of a strong gelling wet while tuning the news.

Mix and match: your wardrobe with a leather jacket or a cardigan—or even a trench coat. You could get maximum protection by bringing a functional but fashionable raincoat.

A dependable pair of shoes is a must during the rainy days. Your feet getting wet inside your shoes as you leave the room will definitely spoil your day. For those who cannot avoid getting wet in the street, bring out your sandals or rain boots.

Indeed, there are more options Italy's can imagine when the time comes. You can stay dry and fashionable over during stormy days. - JoolNaps

Unica Hija showcases two brand ambassadors

The Filipino brand brings Philippine fashion to another level with actress Sarah Geronimo and model Charo Ronquillo.

By Luis Carlos Sam Juan

"WE WANT to have someone that embodies the Filipino image but is also globally appealing," says Maria Rhea Lee Lopez, who explains why they wanted Filipino supermodel Cherie Berganza for their recent campaign along with Israeli Gershonov. "The endowers should reflect what we sell, where we're in, and what the company believes in," he adds.

Wanting to be more than just your run-of-the-mill fashion brand, Union Hills has definitely evolved. Getting away from the floral look, the current collection showcases strong, geometric designs, bold patterns for their back-to-school collections and a touch of transgression inspired at least in part by their holiday line.

Though they may seem poles apart, Chare and Rash have many things in common: most people may not immediately notice. "We actually connect," says Chare. Both coming from humble beginnings and being successful in their respective professions, they have become a source of inspiration for most recent Pillars.

Inside, what has been with the brand for quite some time, making it a bit of a classic for many.

known to be part of the (linear) Hilbert basis that we solve a (linear) Farkas identity.

Simple gets off the camera

"As a model, I should present myself well. Sometimes, I have to adjust to a certain look," Chapp says. It's genuine while working around. But when she's off duty, the actress she's just like the typical confident woman: jeans, a t-shirt and shoes. Being a model, she enjoys indulging in shopping accessories like shoes and bags that accessories are nice.

Isabel, 30, a doctor of herself as a single girl. She likes to look for comfortable clothes. "I want preppy comfortable clothes but comfort comes first," she says. Like most young girls, being in a pair of jeans, a nice top, and shoes are everyday style staples. But if she needs to upgrade, she admits it will be on choice. "I'm attracted with the change for the classic. Sometimes, you are resistant to buy even if it's a promotion," partly explaining the TBC groups she was meeting during the interview.

Never fear shoes for rainy days

MEN'S lace loafer in navyblue and white at P1,190

By JustY Nigao

SHOES are essential gear during the rainy season. They can only provide comfort in every foot, but also give protection from the inconveniences that come with rain.

When choosing to buy one, it's important to consider not only the material used, but also its construction. Will they fare with the constant exposure to rain? Are they slip-resistant when used on damp surfaces?

For all shoes are waterproof but it's certainly better if we use pick a pair which has this feature. It's also necessary that they have anti-bacterial qualities especially if you cannot avoid getting them wet on the streets.

Swiss, a brand of high end and stylish footwear, features shoes which are perfect for the rainy season. Dyes and gels would surely last them as they come in varied designs and eye-catching colors.

Soft and comfortable, the Swiss men's penny loafers and lace sneakers are made with leather in durable Swiss signature rubber with anti-bacterial mesh lining. They are waterproof footwear that are just perfect for the rainy season. Their inner soles, aside from being non-slip, are made from natural rubber which provides superior grip in any surface. Their ventilation gels would also allow them provide superior breathability.

Their footbeds are also anti-bacterial and also resistant for corrosion and durable construction. Their top straps and inside linings are breathable, and feature lightweight anti-bacterial mesh.

For the women, there's also the lace dress loafer and the penny front loafer.

Chic and classy both the lace dress loafer and the penny front loafer are made with leather in durable Swiss signature rubber
